Many of our readers will have some personal interest in the news of the death of King Kalakaua, as they will doubtless resable monarch now deceased by Governor Hennesy. Mr Chater also gave a banquet at Kowloon in honour of the King, and the Royal presence was specially honoured by the misonic fraternity. King Kalakaua made his tour of the Far East in March and April 1881, nearly ten years since. The King, who died at San Francisco, was in his lifty-fifth year. He leaves as his heir, Princes Lydia Kamakeha Liliuokalaui, his eldest sister, who is in her fifty-third year, THE delivery of the English mail was begun and is married to His Excellency John O. > It will be seen from a notice in another column that on and after Wednesday, the 4th instant, the water will be turned off from all parts of the city, with the exception of Praya Central and Praya West and Queen's Road East as far as Spring Garden Lane, between the hours of 9 p.m. and ba.m. The supply to the upper levels has long been intermittent, and it has been a general subject of complaint that no notice was given of the hours at which the water was cut off and put on. Now, however, that owing, we suppose, to the continued drought, the intermittent supply is to become almost general, timely information is given. Civilisation is making some headway even in Hongkong. But the information is not quite complete. The water, for a long time back, has been cut off from the upper levels at an hour nearer middly than 9 p.m. Unless the allowance is to be increased, it is evident that the notification is defentive if not inscurate. THE Tonkin papers contain a few details about the sad death of Mr William Keeble. and his young wife, married only a few weeks ago. They were surprised on the 25th January by a band of six or sight piabout 36 miles from Phu-lang-thuong on Court to $1, and as it pays at this rate, the the way to Lang-son-therefore well on the Red Capsule . . . . 14 1.25 business of filling up the harbour is going Tonkin side of the frontier. The whole merrily on. It will take some time before district around Lang-son is in a very diswe have dry land to Kowloon, but we may turbed condition just now. Bands of pinot be far from that result when our cen- rates are roving about attacking every exposed position. In Laug-son itself the anisord farm establishment was attacked and plundered on the 12th inst. Mr Keeblo, ing an escort from the stations on the road, and an escort is indispensable in these regious at the present moment. On receipt of the news, men were sent from Bac-le to Bac-le, where they were buried on the 26th alt. Owing probably to the approach of China New Year the piratical bands in Tonkin are giving a great deal of trouble at the present moment. A lieutenant, noncommissioned officer and several native soldiers were killed a few days ago in an encounter with pirates at Thanh-hoa-dus. At various other points in Tonkin several more or less successful brushes with pirate bands are reported. Near Mon-cay, on the North-East Frontier, the condition of affairs is said to be serious. There are rumours of the assembly of thousands of ple rates; and although our Haiphong con-WE are requested to state that ewing to temperary thinks the rumours have arisen fromtheusualimmigration previous to China Now Year, the military authorities attach more importance to the gatherings on the frontier and are making preparations on a pretty extensive scale to meet emergencies. The result was that the platform was atormed. the meakers hustled, and they could only reach an hotel with the assistance of police protection, which was somewhat tardily given. Missionaries have no real right to lecture outside treaty limits, but their work is seldom interfered with in any part

Quite a boom cocurred in the Yokohama silk market on the 21st and 22od, owing to the sudden commencement of large purchases by one of the leading foreign arms. Two thousand Japanese bales are said to have been moved at once, and the ball being thus effectually act r ling, a busy time ensued. Prices appear to have gradually dropped in the presence of stagnat on until a margin of profit offers to exporters, and set a moment has been lost in taking advantage of the improved situation, Of course if Japanese holders are foolish enough to be betrayed by this change into a return to their former totally impracticable attitude, the deadlock will soon be reestablished, but we should hope that bitter errelience goalantees them against anything so suicidal. The number of Japanese bales in stock in Yokohama on the 22nd January, was said to be 24 964. Jopen

'THE GONDOLIERS.

PERFORMANCE BY THE HONGKONG CHORAL We have on more than one occasion made the remark that the Cokiny owes a debt of gratitude to the Choral Society. That body, assisted by the Amateur Dramatic Club, has given us, year after year, performances of a thoroughly enjoyable kind, to achieve success in which un effort or expense has been spared, and we should indeed be an ungrateful community did we fail to make adequate recognition of this. The last favour they liave bestowed on the public of Hongkong is their production of 'The Gordeliers,' and the aforesaid debt of gratitude has been considerably increased thereby. This is not the first time that the members of the Society have served as the medium for the presentation of the Savoy operas to Hongkong. They gave us The Soregrer' and ' Jolanthe,' and their success another. They chose the latest-though we ship which has made the Savoy Theatre famous. The choice is in some respects less fortunate than we could desire but there can be no doubt, 'no probable, possible shadow of doubt,' that, having made it, the members of the Society strained every nerve to make the best of it. Their industry and patience have been remarkable. stant practice, principals and chorus working like slaves, musical conductor and stage manager exerting themselves as if their selfish people-and there are, alas, a few. even in this happy Colony-it may seem incomprehensible that so much trouble should be taken merely to give pleasure to a not always appreciative public. But, however we may regard the fact, there i is; and those of us who appreciate disinterested effort on our own behalf, can only accept it and feel grateful. There is, however, a duty imposed on the public in connection with it, and that is to give the greatest possible support and encouragement to the Society, both as an acknowledgement of what the Society has done in the past and from that form of gratitude which is said to be a lively sense of favours

It is somewhat late in the day to give sketch of the plot of 'The Gondoliers,' considering that the opera has had a run o a year at the Savoy and that its production was a public event of which every newspaper in the English language had the fullest correct to say that it has a plot There is a series of amusing complications, however, which serve quite as well for a display of Gilbertian humour. Should this decision be carried out, the use of electricity for lighting purposes must receive a serious check in Japan; for the example set by the Palace will have a powerful in-

They have been translated into various foreign languages, have been adopted in all our English colonies and have had an enormous circulation in the United States. The Japaness authorities would do well to have them translated without delay and insist on the compliance of every Electric Light Company with their provisions.

Without going into too many particulars or technicalities, we may say that the secret f safe lighting consists in paying the most minute attention to the structure, location, and protection of conductors. The conductors should be accessible and capable of being inspected at any time. In sectional area they should allow of at least 100 per cont more electricity being safely sent through them than will over possibly be required for the lights they are to supply. Every conductor should be insulated with specially prepared Indian rubber or other material of lesting quality, and impervious to moisture. The conductors abould be enclosed in wood casing, the wood should be Is inches in breadth in the case of mains, I inch in breadth in that to the principal branches, and & an inch in broadth in that of the smallest branches. The wood used should be sound, hard, and well seasoned. These preconttions only cover what are called in technical language 'non-hazardous risks'; in the case of hazardons risks the conductors require further protection, the details of which we cannot go into here. Various rules bearing on the fastenings of conductors, on joints, and what are called cut outs,' and switches have to be observed, if safety is to be insured, and where transformers (or secondary conductors) are emplayed, they must be encased in iron or be p'aced in a fire-proof compartment. From the Phoeniz rules we gather that fires most frequently occur from the following causes ;

The Phoenix Fire Office Rules were first published in the Times in May, 1882, and they have been in extensive use ever since. We would recommend the Japanese to lose no time in adopting them here.

The subject of the electric lighting of ships we have not touched on, but it is necessary that even more precautions should be taken affort than on shore ; on account of the way in which the compasses are affected by the presence of electricity and of the difference in non-conductivity on shore and at sea. Insulation which may be permanent on land may fail to hold out against the changes of temperature and moisture of the salt water incidental to transit at sea. This subject has been receiving great attention of late. Information bearing on it is being collected by Lloyds Book Committee and by the National Board of Marine Underwriters of New York. It is probable that before long we shall have a set of rules drawn up for controlling the use of the electric light affoat. guard against the dangers to which in many cases ships are now exposed.

MAIL. Washington, Jan. 15th.—After the Financial Bill had passed the Committee of the whole House, Senator West astonished the Senate by proposing, as a substitute, a purely Free Coinage Bill which provides that the unit value of America be a dollar coined of four hundred and twelve and a half grains of standard silver. The Senata adopted the bill as amended by Senator West, by thirty-nine against twenty-seven votes. The bill has been sent to the House of Representatives, where it was referred to a Committee. This bill repeals the purchases of four and a half million ounces of silver monthly provided for in the act passed last July,
